

About us

The Central Highlands Children and Youth Area Partnership (the partnership) brings together the key organisations, and all levels of government, who can, through collaborative action, significantly improve educational outcomes and change the future for vulnerable young people.

Who is involved

The Area Partnership is made up of government (Victorian, local and Commonwealth), Victoria Police, the social services sector, academic institutions, philanthropic organisations and business including, a Leadership Group and Working Groups:

Our leadership group

Our working groups

Our partners

If you would like more information, or want to get involved, please contact us.

The Central Highlands Children and Youth Area Partnership operates across the land of the Wadawurrung, Woi Wurrung and Dja Dja Wurrung people. We acknowledge their Elders past and present and their continuing connection to their Country. We acknowledge the important place of all Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people who live in our area as the first people of Australia.

We are proud to welcome people from all cultural, religious and language backgrounds as part of our community.
